

AMBER Alert

Lane County Law Enforcement Officials know that an AMBER Alert is the best way to spread the word once a child is confirmed missing. Some or all of the following will happen when an Amber Alert is issued:

- Local radio stations interrupt programming to announce the alert
- A type written message runs along the bottom of television screens
- Electronic road signs display alert information
- Private business owners get the word out with their privately owned electronic signage
- Lottery commissions spread the word through their machine networks
- Broadcast e-mails, cell phone text messaging, voice mail notifications and pager systems notify members of the public who have enrolled in the service (which is free).

Find out more, and sign-up to have alerts sent directly to you, by going to the Amber Alert website at <http://amberalert911.com/>